Roger the Reader Reflects

'Anything can happen'.....a much-used phrase, but when you get up in the morning, anything can indeed happen. Robert Burns famously wrote, 'the best laid schemes o' mice and men, gang aft a-gley', (translation for non-Scots: 'often go awry'). Poor Lewis Hamilton recently discovered its truth in Monaco, when his pit-stop team lost him the race. We simply cannot control everything all of the time.

But how are we supposed to react when things don't go according to plan? Most people seem to fall into two camps. There are those who whinge and moan and think the world is conspiring against them. Others just get on with it, whatever the 'it' is and however bad 'it' is.

We all like things to go our way. The broadcaster Adrian Chiles, a Roman Catholic, remembers one of his Parish Priests once asking, 'why is it that we're always so keen for others to change, when we're so reluctant to change ourselves?' The truth is that we can't change the world to make it suit us, neither can we control other people so that they fit in with what makes us happy.

Some suggest that by planning carefully, everything will fall into place. Then there's the 'follow these seven steps to success, and you will be healthy, wealthy and wise!' Yet deep inside, we know that nothing can be guaranteed and that formulae and careful planning don't always work. For people of faith, there can even be a temptation to think that if you press all the right 'God buttons', life will go well and you will be spared the messiness, sickness and fragility that being mortal brings with it.

Anything can happen and anything will happen and there can be no easy fixes. But Christians believe that whatever the world throws up, they will not face things alone and will never be abandoned. Though we cannot know what a day will bring forth, we have that promise of Jesus in Matthew 28, 'I am with you each and every day, until the end of the age'.

Good news indeed!

Roger Grose

From the Editor

Welcome to this double issue of the magazine.

This month it's packed with what's happening in and around our Church and village this summer. We were blessed with fantastic weather for the Fete, and the turnout to support it was fantastic. Thank you to all those who organised it, your hard work and enthusiasm is very much appreciated - "one of the best Village Fetes I've ever been to, something for everyone" was a comment made to me.

I hope you enjoy your Summer and I'll be back with the September edition of the magazine. I'll leave you with a few pictures of the Fete.

Priming the pump - ABC of Uplyme's water and sanitation project

C – Country Rep

Tearfund, the charity we partner with which oversees our project in Zambia, is part of the international disaster relief agency group. In recent years they have changed the way they work, now preferring to empower agencies in countries where they work and monitor their work. Monitoring is the job of the Tearfund Country Rep. The Zambian Country Rep is Anne Mumbi and she lives in Zambia, overseeing the Tearfund Projects there. We are so pleased that she is coming to Uplyme to speak at a special Uplyme Zambia Water project service on 21st June, which we'll tell you about next time.

D – Donations

Someone asked us recently how they could donate to the project, so I thought we should cover this, should you wish to do so too. We are always grateful to receive gifts. Many people collect their loose change in one of our boxes – these can be picked up in church by the Zambian notice board under the bell-ringing floor. Just collect your loose change and then let us know when it is full. It is great that money which just lies around can be put to good use! Please help yourself to a box if you'd like to and let us know when it is full, or return to the church office on (01297 444499). Some people are able to gift-aid their donations and this enables us to gain tax-back from the government. There are special Uplyme Zambia project envelopes for any larger donation, also available by the display. You will need to complete the envelope with your signature to enable our Treasurer to claim the tax back and check that you pay enough tax to cover the amount claimed. We also benefit from event sponsorship, so if your company would like some good local publicity and help a very worthwhile cause, please do get in touch. Thank you for partnering with us, by coming to events and helping change people's lives.

D – Don't miss

Recently we held our 'Tea in a Wildlife Garden' event. The weather was perfect, the garden amazing and people thoroughly enjoyed listening to Lyme Voices combining with the Chard Community Choir for a whistle-stop world musical tour. The profit from the day was £1030, a huge thank you to everyone who came and especially to Angie and Albi Patterson for sharing their beautiful garden. We've been busy planning some more events, so hope you'll put them in your diary.

Streams of living water Art Exhibition will be held in Uplyme Church on 28th and 29th August. This will be a show-case of local artists' work and if you'd like to exhibit then please contact Sue on 07938 073213. There will be art demos and activities for children, refreshments and raffle. So it'll be well worth coming to...

Uplyme Zambia Ball – our fourth Annual ball will be held in Haselbury Mill on Saturday 14th November. Look out for more details in the next magazine, but in the meantime you can pre-book your tickets by contacting Morag on 443947 and dust off your dancing shoes!

First Friday Club

This ‘Meet Up’ group evolved after several local people independently bemoaned the fact that it is hard to ‘meet’ people. Even in Uplyme where there is a fair number of local interest groups there is no forum for those who are new to the area, or have lived here all their lives, single, married, bereaved, of any age to get together with like-minded neighbours for friendship and activities in the Uplyme and Lyme Regis area.

The idea is not new since similar groups already exist in Bridport and Eype (West Dorset Friendship Group WD40+) and the international website www.meetup.com specifically targets those who want to learn something, do something or share something and these activities can be as diverse as a walk and lunch, attending an open garden with afternoon tea, or a music event.

The inaugural FFC Curry Night took place on 5 June at Lal Qilla in Broad Street and despite the relatively intimate gathering there was a really positive atmosphere amongst the members of the group. It is a much needed resource for those (owing to small children or lack of babysitters) who struggle to have a social life. Feedback received includes “thanks for Friday, it's a great idea and hopefully it will build momentum”.

Many people can't commit to a regular club and the reason why this idea is so novel, is precisely because you don't need to have a common interest. The calendar of events is not organised by one person but by all of us and we are really keen to hear more ideas of how we can introduce new events which will generate wider friendships. Already residents of Axmouth, Axminster, Colyton and Bothenhampton have expressed interest in joining us for the next two events.

Friday 3 July - Fish & Chips on the beach, meet at the Lifeboat Station at 7pm, children and dogs welcome and we will walk to Back Beach up the new Charmouth Road steps to collect cars.

Friday 7 August - gentle walk through Uplyme, meet at the Village Hall at 7pm (all welcome) to explore the Prescott Pinetum and conclude with refreshment in the nearby garden of one of the members.

Friday 4 September - Film Night at the Regent Cinema, time and programme to be confirmed.

Friday 2 October - Skittles at The Ship in Axmouth.

If you are curious come along and join in. There is no membership fee, no restrictions and for those who are really keen we might launch a website just so that we can keep in touch easily and pre-book events. Thanks to those who have already made suggestions for other activities which are much appreciated. Please email Kim Sankey if you would like to be involved, need or can offer transport - kimsankey@gmail.com or call 07742190490.

Random Recollections from David Coates

'I came to Uplyme in 1963, the time of the great snow and lived for 20 years in Yawl Hill lane, before I moved to Janvin where I am now. Janvin is a printer's error. It should be Janvrin, named after Peter Ransford's niece. I used to walk down the hill to where Cook's Mead now is and there was a pretty pond. I rode on the last journey by the Bluebell Train from Axminster to Lyme dressed in Edwardian costume. I used to see the Cotleigh Hunt meeting at the Talbot Arms. The Rev. Lionel Seale, the Rector, lived in the Rectory, later the Devon Hotel and now Rohaise Court.

There were four shops in the village, two of them butchers, one of whom was run by a man called Irish. In what is now Venlake End, there were no houses but a pond. The Roost in Springhead road was a guest house. In the old village hall by then a bit decrepit I put on several playlets.

I had a degree from Reading University and taught at two schools before I joined in January, 1963, Lyme Regis Grammar School, soon to change its name to the Woodroffe School. I was made Head of the English Department in 1965 when I was 34. I founded a Poetry Society and out of school ran the athletics and cross country. The Headmaster, Major Pearn, had once heard the President of the United States tell his Senate that each Senator ought to be fit enough to walk 50 miles. So I took part in three 50-mile walks which I achieved once in 10 hours (17 hours was par for the course!) I also directed three Shakespeares and three operas. I taught at Woodroffe for 16 years. In retirement I took the lead and sang in several Gilbert & Sullivans – Poo Bah in The Mikado, the Admiral in HMS Pinafore and parts in several others as well as acting in a number of plays.'

David was a star of many productions of the Lyme Regis Dramatic Society whose President Sylvia Lee comments on his distinguished acting career: 'I directed David in many plays. He took direction well, was scholarly in the part, imaginative in his portrayal of character, expert in dialect, full of energy and a meticulous actor. Above all, he was a great comic actor in many different parts. He played Pepys in And so to bed, Professor Higgins in Pygmalion, Charles Condamine in Blithe Spirit, Dafyd in A Chorus of Disapproval and many more parts. No one worked harder than David; I admired his acting enormously.'

Mrs Ethelston's School

June and July are always busy and fun months in school! The pressures of assessment have eased and opportunities for outdoor pursuits are more readily available.

We have been very busy rebuilding our garden, thanks to the parents and friends of the school who have been so supportive. While we await a decision about the building of the new school, we hope to make the most of the site.

We have many trips planned, including adventure days, bug hunting, animal parks, Seaton Tram, Exeter Mosque and much more! Following the SATs, Year 6 returned from a very successful, week-long residential trip to Knapp House, where they canoed, climbed, sailed on the sea and go-karted, not to mention participated in rock-pooling and abseiling. They were exhausted, but happy to have been on such an adventure.

We have many sports events during the Summer months. Mr Clarke from Woodroffe has been coaching cricket and athletics, and helping our older children become 'Sports Leaders', so they can help and support others. Mr Smith from Go Active, who provides much of our enrichment and sports coaching training, has been working alongside staff on some exciting and different new games. The children of Mrs Ethelston's are particularly talented at handball! Add to this football and cricket tournaments, athletics festivals, swimming galas and Sports Day and we have an action packed final half term.

It makes me very proud of the school to know that our children are recognised for their sporting achievements, but also their sportsmanlike attitudes and good behaviour on trips. Our Year 6 leave us at the end of this term, unique individuals who are developing into well-rounded young people with plenty to offer.

Out and About with John Pennington...

Mrs P and I decided to visit the lovely gardens of Netherbury on Sunday (they open for one weekend a year in June and I highly recommend a visit in 2016 and beyond) and after parking the car I put my jumper on and felt a sharp pain in my arm. On closer inspection I discovered a very docile bee on my sleeve that had decided to sting me. I'd been thinking about a bee edition of 'out and about', after a readers suggestion, and this sealed my decision. Typing is proving uncomfortable however, as my sting has decided to turn into a red patch and I keep getting pains in my fingers and arm. I will ignore the discomfort and I think we'll start with the bumble bee. As loved by gardeners up and down the country, these pollinating machines play a vital role in the growing of our plants.

There are 27 species of bumble bee native to the UK, 6 of which you are likely to see in your garden. Sadly they are all in trouble - Since 1970, the UK's population has fallen by 60 percent. The problem is, the number of introduced cultivated flowers are the wrong shape for our bees and some produce no pollen or nectar at all. The long grass bumble bees need to build a nest is kept short on overly manicured lawns and since 1930 95% of wild flower meadows, the prime habitat for bumble bees, has been lost. There are simple things we can do. If you have a garden, plant wild flowers early in the season so that the Queen Bee, when she comes out of hibernation, has something to feed on. You then need to keep planting them for the rest of the season, e.g. lavender, foxglove, white clover, sage. Don't buy glossy, glamorous botox plants from the garden centre which are often quite pricey. Also, take my tip from last months 'out and about' and grow some strips of meadow.

Its not been plain sailing (or flying!) for the regular honey bee either. For those honey lovers out there, you'll have doubtless noticed the massive increase in honey price in the last few years their population has shrunk due to disease and loss of habitat. These fascinating insects exhibit complex social behaviour and their flight is unlike other insects. Many people don't realise that honey varies massively in colour and taste dependant on the flowers that have been pollinated. It can be red or green in extreme cases. My father has bee hives and I sometimes help him move them or extract the honey. Wearing a bee suit I feel quite safe and its fascinating to see them close up. The queen bee is far bigger than the worker bees and is always surrounded and protected. The queen will have given birth to most, if not all of the bees in the hive. She can lay more than her weight in eggs in a day!

The honeycomb produced in a bee hive is incredible - a geometric marvel of nature filled with honey and sealed with wax. In fact pretty much everything about bees is a marvel. Next time you see one buzzing around, have a look at these amazing insects at work. At this time of year they are at their most active.

Until next time....

JP

1st Lym Valley Scout Group

These months are the busiest months of the scouting calendar. All the sections are out and about doing exciting activities. Last month the scouts went to Exeter to the Clip and Climb centre and had a brilliant time. Trying all the different climbs and pushing themselves to do climbs they thought they would never be able to achieve. Shelter building, hiking and photography on the scout programme for the rest of the term before some of the scouts head off for the Devon Jamboree near Plymouth. This is a weeklong camp during August full of activities and a chance to meet other scouts from around the UK and from abroad.

The cubs have been grass sledging and doing many outdoor activities. There is room for more cubs so if you have a child aged 8-10 who would like to have a go bring them along.

The Beavers continue to grow in numbers we are now full. They are out and about lighting fires and cooking on the beach, grass sledging and the young leaders are preparing a games night (adult leaders get a night off yeah!).

The term finishes with games and a BBQ on the beach.

Back on the 9th September 2015 (TBC) with a new and exciting programme.

If you think you would like to be involved in scouting in any way do come along and speak to us, there is something for everyone.

Yours in Scouting

Uplyme Help at Hand

Hopefully many of you will have seen us at the Village Fete 13th June and been able to ask any questions you might have.

At the end of May, Jane Garland kindly hosted a well attended and "chatty" afternoon tea party - the weather was fine if a little windy but no one was in a hurry to go home! The event is likely to be repeated by popular demand!

3 of us went to a dementia training day. The speakers were excellent. They gave us a lot of guidance which we hope will make it possible for us to provide better help for carers and those with the condition.

Transport needs have been met whenever they have been requested – grateful thanks to our volunteers – and we have some villagers who now have regular visitors.

Please do not hesitate to contact us if you have a need we might be able to meet.
Contact Anne Hardman 444799 or Jenny Perham 32254 for general enquiries and David Jones 444729 or Hazel Williams 598041 for transport needs.

“The truest real Christian I have ever met”

It's not what many press reporters would write about anyone today, but in the late 1950's that's what a cynical hack wrote about Richard Carr-Gomm. Who was he you ask? Well he was a decorated Major in the Cold-stream Guards, who at the end of the war served in Palestine and Egypt but underwent some kind of spiritual conversion when he was travelling rough through Italy. He came across a “community of the distressed” that was run by nuns who offered shelter, fellowship and hope to those displaced, dispossessed and marginalised by conflict.

Richard resigned his commission, much to his parent's angst and used his £250 army gratuity to put as a deposit on a tatty two-up, two-down in Eugene Road, Lewisham. He did the place up and invited four lone pensioners to come and stay, while himself sleeping on a camp bed with orange boxes for furniture. He cooked and cleaned not only for his own residents, but took this up as a job to earn the money to expand his vision. His hard work earned him the nickname of the scrubbing Major and it was on his knees that he first met the reporter Keith McDowell who wrote for the South London Press and later said of Richard, he was the “truest real Christian that I have ever met.”

Richard Carr-Gorman wasn't just an enthusiastic eccentric for within two years he had opened five sheltered houses and founded the Abbeyfield Society. He drew in like-minded folk to be Trustees and so by 1963, there were 200 houses across the country, each with its board of Trustees, all affiliated into the one Society. So what drove this committed Christian? He said that he thought that the worst deprivation in life was the lack of human company and the apathy that came with it. To him it was almost an abstract spiritual state. His route wasn't always smooth for in 1963 with a great success behind him, he was voted off the Board of Trustees and devoted the rest of his life to founding two other caring charities. His original vision continues in Lyme, and Axminster where Abbeyfield houses still offer independent living in community houses to offer companionship, warmth and safety to residents. Change

UNTENABLE or NOT? by The Full Poodle

Nobody likes change. We're quite definite about that – it's nasty, grubby, chinking stuff that wears holes in our pockets. No, give us notes every time, and the bigger, the better.

Ah, right, the light dawns, not that sort of change apparently.

3.1, 95, 98, 98se, Millenium, XP, Vista, 7, 8, 8.1 – stop the bus I want to get off!

 We know that many of our customers still hanker after XP. After all it was around for a long time and we all got used to it. But no more change or at least that's what the shiny new management at Microsoft are promising us. Windows 10, if we believe Microsoft, will be the last Windows release, on the 29th of July this year. Or did they say July 29?

It is to be a completely free upgrade for users of Windows 8.1 and Windows 7 and will be implemented via the normal Windows update service. Users of those two systems are being notified by a windows symbol which appears in the notification area at the bottom right of the screen.

The upgrade will not be automatic; you will need to opt in. But should you?

 In the Poodle's view Windows 8.1 users should upgrade. Windows 8 has been about as popular as a tuba-playing pony at breakfast.

We've been using Windows 10 for over a year now and it is much more user-friendly, faster, and adaptable. If you're using Windows 8 you need to take the upgrade to 8.1, which is found in the Windows Store, before the upgrade to 10 will work.

Upgrading Windows 7 is a more difficult choice. Most users are so happy with W7 that they're called Larry ... W7 does all they need, so why change? Windows 10 on a normal PC or laptop looks and behaves very much like Windows 7 but with the good bits of Windows 8 bolted on. It even runs fairly well on low spec machines. The Poodle is currently running it on an old netbook which has a low powered atom processor. It's not fast but it works.

Then there's the future. Support for Windows 7 will end in 2020 but according to Microsoft there is no end of support for Windows 10.

So it's a balance: On one side, there's the disruption of an upgrade and uncertainty about a new system, whilst there are added features and future proofing on the other. But there's no rush. The free upgrade offer will be valid for a year, so plenty of time to look at a friend's Windows 10 system and then decide.

Old Windows cynics will always wait a while to let the bugs settle and to make sure the dust has been ironed out, and who would the Poodle be to disagree?

In the words of Marcel the sage: 'Plus ça change et vive la différence'.

In the Garden with Nigel Ball

Dear Readers

As I sit at my desk thinking when will this wind stop and we get some back to normal weather - although one might ask "what is normal"? The weather patterns are on the change and cool nights are still around. Sweet pea flowers are not forming due to these cooler nights, onions blown our by wind and some seeds not germinating due to dry soil conditions. Also this year flea beetle on the veg patch has been bad due to dry weather. All plants seem to be growing well, do not forget to stake plants to prevent them falling over, this is very annoying after you have spent time and effort tending them. This problem is particularly bad in long flower borders where wind and rain just batters the plants down. I have had my first potatoes which are beautiful you can't beat home grown veg. I hope you have a good growing season and have some entries for the Summer show. I know that visitors and villagers alike enjoy this event. Here is a poem that i have written to keep you inspired during the summer months.

The Village Garden

The Village Garden Bright and gay over the hedge farmer makes his hay
June the month hot and bright sunny weather such bright light

Flowers in borders growth so long birds in trees singing song slugs rasping out of site favourite plants that we might

Put in the show to win a prize to delight of the judges eyes
A hole in a plant that was not there on morning of show you stand and stare.

The entries are in its looking great
The class i entered very late
Has filled the table to my surprise
To woo the visitors and open eyes

The village show marquee so white the ropes are on so very tight tables out numbers down people coming from village and town.

The Village garden offers food for thought
I should enter i know i ought
My garden gives me so much pleasure the level it gives is hard to measure

Enjoy this summer one and all how ever your garden big or small work out of the big strong sun and always keep your hat on.

God Bless you all

Nigel

First Eleven, well placed to challenge for promotion...

When our first eleven were 'promoted' into Division 1CE, it was seen as a tough step up for the club, but the club's spearhead team has certainly risen to the occasion. At the time of writing, with seven matches played and Ottery St Mary well clear at the top on 134pts, we are in fourth place on 95pts, equal with neighbours Seaton and just one point behind Alphington on 96pts. The top two sides will be promoted.

Top run getters are our Australian Guest, Richard O'Halloran with 229 at an average of 45.8, Steve Batey 166 at 55.3 ave and brother Mark Batey, 145 at 20.7 ave.

Pick of the bowlers, who both also feature near the top of league rankings, are Paddy Barraclough and Rhys Davies, each with 13 league wickets, closely followed by all-rounder and skipper Steve Batey with 11.

Things are a little harder in the seconds...

Also promoted, into Division 2CE, after the first seven matches the seconds are engaged in a foot of the table scrap but ironically, with less than half of the season gone, we are still not out of the hunt for promotion. A single recent win at Kilmington took us from the foot of the table to sixth.

Top run-getters for the two's are; Rob Thom with 243 at an average of 60.8, including an unbeaten century and two fifties, Harvey Brimcombe with 102 closely followed by Wesley Holmes and Eddie Clarke on 96 and 88 respectively.

Top bowlers, as we approach the season half way mark, are Dave Norman and Wesley Holmes with 7 and Toby Newson with 6.

Sadly our league position has not been helped by the fact that we have had to go into three of the six matches played without a full team. When able to field the full eleven we have only been defeated in one game, at Upottery, and that very narrowly. If we can field a strong team for the remainder of the season, promotion should not be ruled out!

The public meeting on 5th June to view and comment on plans for the Shire Lane development was attended by over 100 people. Many of these were from Lyme Regis, and Councillors were surprised that more Uplyme residents didn't take the opportunity to see what was proposed. 120 new houses could make a big difference in a parish with about 850 households currently.

Footpaths: Councillors have again been strimming some of the overgrown parish footpaths, although generally speaking it is the responsibility of the landowner or the County Council to keep paths clear of weeds and overhanging branches.

Glebelands green corridor: the Council will be writing to the owners asking them to consider giving the land next to no. 17 to the Council, which would protect the one remaining site, which the developer hopes to fill, from future development. The green corridor from the Glen to the top of Barnes Meadow is an important space in the village, and Councillors felt that protecting it was important, both for residents and for wildlife.

Grant to King Georges Field Trustees: it has finally been possible to agree a one-year trial licence between the Council and the Trustees, giving both sides some security of tenure and income, respectively. The deferred amount of £500 can now be paid. There will be a review at the end of the first year with a view to a longer-term agreement.

Police report: PCSO Andrew Trott's report was too late for the meeting, but there were four crimes since the last meeting, two domestic burglaries, one instance of making off without paying, and one fraud on which no action will be taken.

Land west of Shire Lane, Planning application update ...

Further to my article last month, the major outline application from Hallam Land Management, for the construction of up to 120 residential dwellings, or up to 100 residential dwellings plus land for a care home/extra care housing, is under consideration at the time of writing (14th June).

This application has attracted a high level of interest, not just within Uplyme but also Lyme Regis.

When this edition of the Parish Magazine lands on Uplyme doorsteps, the formal consultation period for the application will have been completed.

I am preparing my comments on the application as elected Ward Member. These will now be available along with those of other consultees and members of the public who have expressed an opinion, in the planning section of the East Devon website (<http://eastdevon.gov.uk/planning/>) under reference 15/0851/MOUT. For ease of access, I will also publish a copy on my website (www.trinitymatters.co.uk), from which you can access directly all correspondence on the application.

In preparing comment, I have attended events organised by Uplyme Parish Council and also Hallam Land themselves at a meeting of the Lyme Regis Town Council Planning Committee. I take into account the views of both council and communities. Uplyme Parish Council has also provided the further opportunity to view copies of the proposal at the Village Fete on 13th June, prior to the public meeting of its Planning Committee on Wednesday 17th June, before preparing its consultee response to East Devon District Council.

Whilst the application will be determined by East Devon District Council, under the policies and strategies of the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), East Devon adopted and emerging Local Plans, and the emerging Uplyme Neighbourhood Plan, I have also sought to understand and reflect the views and needs of the residents of both Uplyme and Lyme Regis, and West Dorset policies and strategies in my comments.

East Devon Office relocation continues...

Prior to the elections in May, EDDC Members resolved to sell the site at The Knowle in Sidmouth for development and to move to new, much smaller modern offices in Honiton and to share the Town Hall in Exmouth.

Following the elections a group of Independent Members sought to delay to move. This was debated in an Extraordinary meeting, where it was resolved by a large majority, 38 to 16, that the motion to delay be rejected. This is a position I support, as the move had also previously been backed by several key council committees and the Council's external auditors. Our Council staff are also keen to get on with the move and remove personal uncertainty.

Savings

To stay at Knowle would cost a further £3.9m when all the running costs and minor repairs are taken into consideration. Taking all the costs into account, using the sale proceeds saves £2.8m over a 20 year period. Most importantly, after 20 years, the loan will be paid off.

On a direct comparison of operational expenditure between the existing Knowle buildings (with no refurbishment) and the Honiton/Exmouth offices, East Devon District Council will save £6m over 20 years by moving.

Provisional relocation/Knowle sale timetable

This overall timetable is for guidance only as it may be subject to delay, depending on planning related matters.

June 2015 East Devon is due to exchange contracts with Pegasus Life Ltd - the developer which has been selected to purchase and develop Knowle. Pegasus specialises in providing retirement homes and extra care facilities, for which there is huge demand in Sidmouth.

July 2015 Design team due to be appointed.

Sept 2015 Construction contractor due to be appointed.

May 2016 Heathpark and Exmouth (if necessary) planning applications to be considered.

June 2016 Pegasus planning application to be considered.

July 2016 Council will review planning decisions.

Aug 2016 Work due to begin on Heathpark and Exmouth town hall.

Oct 2017 Council due to move offices.
